NOTE: There is a difference in the number of novice teachers reported as compared to the number of program completers in 2012. This is likely due to changes in state policies, which eliminated the Praxis III assessment and designated the standard license as the first license issued to program completers. Previously, the novice teachers' Praxis III scores would not be released until they completed the survey, and thus they could not convert their initial license to a standard license. Now, with the first license issued to program completers being the standard license, many new teachers did not submit the survey.
